

New Class of Air Bombers Graduate Here

Some time ago a new classification was added to the R.C.A.F. air crew trades—the air bomber—and classes of airman in the new trade received their badges today at several Canadian air observer schools. One was at No. 2 air observer school at Edmonton.

The air bombers receive thorough air training in reconnaissance, aerial photography, map reading, elementary navigation, gunnery and bomb aiming and dropping.

Air bombers who received their flying badges today at Edmonton comprised Canadians, a youth from the United States serving with the R.C.A.F. and members of the Royal Air Force and the Royal New Zealand Air Force who have taken their advanced training at Canadian air schools under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Alexander Mackay, R.A.F., whose home is at Thurso, Caithness, Scotland, was the leading student.

Along with this class of air bombers from No. 2 air observer school was an entry of R.C.A.F. air navigators. E. J. Barker, a former student at Queen's university and teacher at Laughlin, B.C., and A. Emerson, Colliette, Emerson, Man, held the highest marks at graduation time.

Mass Bombings Seen For London

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(C.P.)—A warning that London may undergo bombings which would make the terrible assaults of April 16 and May 10, 1941, seem "mere pinpricks" was given today by Sir George Gurnea, London regional commissioner at the presentation of awards in civil defence rescue service competition.

The BBC reported the Royal Air Force held a big exercise over London and its home counties last night.

This was designed to test the new and secret devices which have been perfected against the bombers when the Luftwaffe again tries to bomb our cities," said the broadcaster, recorded at New York by CBS.

He Didn't Count the Cost

BUT TO HAVE TO SACRIFICE TO BUY HIS OWN THIS YEAR

These days when the cost of living is so high, it is not surprising that many people are finding it difficult to make ends meet. This is especially true for those who are trying to save money for a special purchase, such as a car or a house.

One man who is facing this problem is Mr. John Smith. He has been saving money for a long time, but now he is finding it difficult to make ends meet.

Mr. Smith is a hard worker and has always been careful with his money. But now he is finding it difficult to make ends meet.

Japan Cruiser, 4 Other Ships Hit in Solomons

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(C.P.)—An enemy aircraft carrier task force, striking into the heart of Japan's defence area in the north Solomon Islands, has damaged an enemy heavy cruiser and four other ships, destroyed eight aircraft and blasted an airfield, the United States navy announced last night.

The operation, conducted in unfavorable weather, apparently caught the Japanese by surprise at one of their most vulnerable points. It was carried through without the loss of a man or plane and without damage to any ship.

A navy communique, reporting the action, said the ships attacked were in the Shortland Islands, just south of the island of Guadalcanal, which is the main Japanese base in the Solomons. The airfield attacked was Kiriwina, on the northern coast of Bougainville, 45 miles north of Guadalcanal.

For several weeks the communique said, enemy ships had been observed in the Shortland area. This was authoritatively interpreted to mean that a great armada was mustering there but that on frequent occasions single ships of enemy fleets set out. These probably were engaged in the work of supplying and reinforcing enemy troops on Guadalcanal Island, site of the main American battle zone to the south, as well as on Japanese islands nearby.

On Oct. 8, the carrier task force under general direction of Vice Admiral R. L. Horney, navy, was reported to have moved in to the attack, which was reported to have been successful. The Japanese ships were damaged and the American ships were not.

Nazis Execute Most of Males in Norse Town

said that the Germans had drawn up a blacklist of more than 1,000 persons known to be Jewish in the Nazi regime of Orkney Islands. It was believed that they all had been sentenced to death.

Reports from the Norwegian frontier described the population there ready to dash to any trench area, and planes were prepared to blast the scene of serious trouble.

Many observers believed that the Norwegian army would not strike back at any moment, opening a full scale battle against occupation forces despite tremendous odds. Nazi machine guns were mounted on steel corners, tanks were ready to dash to any trench area, and planes were prepared to blast the scene of serious trouble.

Preparations for this had been made by the German command-in-chief for Norway, Gen. Nikolaus von Falkenhorst, who was understood to have rushed fresh reinforcements to the Oslo area as well as to have a military cord around the entire capital city.

Through the Scandinavian nations there was unrest. Tension continued in Denmark while the German reply to the Danish reply to German repression against Danish "non-cooperation" in neutral Sweden. Norwegian flags were flown at half-mast to express sympathy for the ailing nation.

Jittery Germans Turn Lights on English Channel
LONDON, Oct. 9.—(C.P.)—The Germans switched on their powerful searchlights on the occupied French coast south of Calais last night, in a move to keep the English Channel in the dark.

The reason was not immediately apparent since there had been no report of air raids or sea engagements. The Germans, however, have been jittery along the coast since the Allied raid on Dieppe. The lights appeared to be installed on high ground at a point where the channel is but 20 miles wide.

IGNORE STATEMENT
The Russian high command's midnight communique ignored a German statement that Axis industry and engineers would be withdrawn from the Soviet Union, leaving the field to heavy artillery and bombers.

A Berlin propaganda broadcast last night claimed the strategic objective already achieved and that the German army was now at a retreat of the Germans and their allies from the Volga, or ferro.

London military observers treated the broadcast with caution, but anonymously expressed belief it was a statement that they were preparing for another winter along the Russian front.

DEFEND "EVERY YARD"
Its dispatch declared the German army to break through to the river and cut the Red army in two, but praised the garrison troops with a statement that they were defending every yard of land valiantly.

Offensive operations were maintained by Red army forces against the German flank north of Stalingrad, and a fresh penetration of the Nazi frontiers was announced.

A guerrilla detachment was credited with destruction of 16 German tanks.

Moscow Laughs While the Enemy Pounds at Her Gates

Quentin Reynolds, ace reporter, has among other gifts, the uncanny ability to be on the scene when world-shaking news is in the making. He was in London during the critical days of Blitz, his books, articles, broadcasts, films and lectures did more to create popular support in America for Britain's cause than all the official communiques and propaganda combined—EDITOR.

INSTANT 18.

Meanwhile life went on with some semblance of normalcy. That is during the day. The ballet was open and crowds argued as to the relative merits of Ulanova and Lephinskaya. Some time before had appeared in "Swan Lake," and opinion was divided as to which cast the more potent spell over the audience. Lord Beaverbrook and Averell Harriman, when they were there for the Moscow conference, attended a special performance of "Swan Lake" and both were captivated by the twinkling toes and artful grace of Ballerina Ulanova. Admirers of her rival also flocked and told them.

The opera was open, too; the motion-picture houses showing the Russian-made "Masquerade" were crowded, and the picture "London Can Take It" was being shown there until after the first time. True, the audiences were usually 80 per cent feminine. The men of Moscow were at the front.

One day Moscow took a holiday from the war to watch its own world series. At the big Dynamo stadium the two best soccer teams in Russia met for the championship. It was Dynamo and the spectators behaved just as our own football fans behave. They yelled encouragement to the team of their choice; they groaned when Alexei or Ivan missed what seemed certain goals. Airplanes overhead and lastly overhead on the alert against possible German raiders, for it was an overcast day, the kind the Nazis like for dive-bombing.

The football was not quite so hotly disputed by the English professional teams, but was spirited and exciting. Now and then Nikoli, star forward of the Dynamo team, was very wide with his goal in the goal. It had been told to watch him, for Nikoli, considered to be the Big Bertha of Russian football. The reason for his poor timing was soon forthcoming.

"I wonder he is off today," a man from the British Embassy said. "He only got back from the front yesterday. They gave him leave just for this game."

Nearly all the players were in one service or another. Those who were not army or air force men worked in factories and had been given the Sunday afternoon off to play. They made 15,000 citizens of Moscow, and this they forgot the war for the afternoon.

To escape the depressing atmosphere, I went to the circus. It was a good circus, but then all circuses are good. Instead of three in the press room, where we brought out the news to be commented on while waiting for the process of censorship, we shared gossip.

Today's Sport Parade

By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(RUP)—Little Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., three-way prince of professional golf for three consecutive years, plans to join one of the armed services next month. This will remove a dangerous money player from the sport's golden trail during the winter tournament season.

And it appears now that the war will not prevent another string of winter tournaments, in which all prizes will be paid off in war bonds and all profits garnered by the tourney clubs invested in war bonds. At least that is the situation as described by Fred J. Corcoran, tournament manager of the Professional Golfers' Association.

TED RAY WON AT 43

ACCENT will be on age during this trek over the golden trail, with most of the young golfers being in service. In fact 135 members of the P.G.A. already are in uniform.

But Corcoran emphasizes that age does not prevent good golf. He recalls that Ted Ray of England won the U.S. open title at Toledo in 1910 when he was 43 and that Crisp Wood took the open title at Fort Worth, Tex., in 1940 when he was 39. And those players were competing against the cream of youthful golfers from three continents.

Tournament Manager Corcoran says that in 1942 was a good year in prize money for golfers. Professionals played for a total of $140,000, and that appeared before more than 40,000 spectators. He says: "Even though I'll be in service soon and have no further connection with the game for the duration, I hope that Washington permits tournament play throughout the war because this game of golf is an important factor in maintaining civilian morale."

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—There hasn't been any great drop in attendance at Belmont Park since the trains stopped running, and off-the-trail Rockingham has decided business is good enough that they won't have to cut prices after all. . . apparently it takes more than lack of transportation to discourage a guy who thinks he can beat the races.

Today's Guest Stars—John P. Carmichael, Chicago Daily News. "The Cardinals went out of New York on a plain, ordinary railroad train, a fact that New York probably wouldn't believe. No word would have been surprised if they'd gone via magic carpet or disappeared from Yankee Stadium in a cloud of smoke."

Book Brickman and Ben Getz, the Cleveland fight promoters, have settled their argument with the National Football League. George Manoukian of Hadden, Conn., suggests that the government should take over the Cardinals—because they possess a great deal of scrap.

Far-A-Graph—George Trendelen, a Memphis golfer, has come up with the stunt of making an even-par score for nine holes without paring a single hole. . . He turned in three birdies, one eagle and five bogies. . . Just to make it more confusing, George shot seven pars and two bogies on the second nine.

Art Fletcher Draws Down $15,000 as Third Base Coach

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Arthur Fletcher gets $15,000 a year for coaching at third base for the Yankees. He is the highest salaried coach in baseball.

Art Fletcher is the old giant shortstop. He was one of the first managers to give up on the Pinks. Always quick on the trigger, the Pinks made no sense to him.

At the far turn for the Cardinals is Senior Miguel Angel Gonzalez, a fine catcher for 22 years and one of the smartest men on any ball field any time.

Any baseball man will tell you that the third base coach is the most underrated, and in most cases underpaid, man on the field.

QUICK THINKING COUNTS
They will testify that during the course of the season 13 or 14 Yankees and Cardinal victories could be traced to split-second decisions by Fletcher and Senior Mike Gonzalez.

Al Schacht, who handled the trying job for 13 years in Washington and with the Boston Red Sox, considers the third base coach the most important individual on the club when the side is at bat. He has a hand in every pitch and move.

He must be skillful and sharp in getting signs from the manager in the dugout, and transmitting them to the batter and anybody else involved in the play.

He must be a keen student of players' strengths and weaknesses. MUST TAKE CHANCES
No one plays the slightest attention to the third base coach as long as things are running smoothly. It goes without saying that as long as all is tranquil, the third base coach is making no mistake.

It is only when a base runner is caught at the plate or third base in a tough spot that the third base coach suddenly pops into the calculation.

The third base coach must know percentages and play them.

There are situations in late innings of tightly-pitched games when he must give a base-runner round second base a green light to the plate although the player has less than a 90 per cent chance of making it.

He gambles on the throw being a bit off or on the ball getting away from the catcher.

COACH THE GOAT
If the run scores, the runner is a hero. No credit goes to the third base coach.

If the runner is thrown out, they shout "Why did the blankets-blank coaching at third base send him in, anyway?"

If the runner is held, and the throw is bad or the ball gets away from the catcher, the third base coach is asked why he let the man in when he could have scored so easily.

Third base coaches have been blamed for runners being picked off second base.

No one is more open to second guessing than the third base coach.

Social Disease Meeting to Ask Law Amendment

Tentative approval of a resolution urging federal authorities to amend the criminal code, making possible fingerprinting and photographing of lepers and inmates of bawdy houses on arrest, was given Thursday by delegates attending the second western conference on venereal disease control held at the Macdonald.

The resolution will be drawn up by the resolutions committee of the conference, that is being attended by delegates from the four western provinces, with representation from civilian health departments and of the three branches of the armed services.

AUTHORITY NEEDED

It was felt by the delegates that such authority is needed to make the fight against social disease more effective.

As the law now stands, persons arrested for vagrancy, or as keepers of houses of ill repute, can not be fingerprinted or photographed. This makes the control of persons, who may be sources of infection, a more difficult problem, because of the continued movement of people from one city to another.

Another feature of the war against the social menace is the fact that keepers of houses, who have been ordered to vacate by police have countered with rent control regulations, whereby they cannot be forced to move before three months.

An air force medical officer stated that a pilot, whose training is interrupted by disease, costs the country $20,000 and also disrupts the training program.

Col. W. F. Hancock, assistant commissioner of the R.C.M.P., spoke briefly.

REAL MENACE

He said he was convinced that social disease is a real menace to the war effort of Canada. He felt that the general public was not educated to the danger. The press head also stated he is convinced that science has more power to solve the aggregated disease, far from solving the problem of social disease, is in itself a definite menace.

Some property owners also constitute an obstacle to cleaning up a city, as they resist efforts to evict certain tenants because of high revenues. Col. Hancock stated.

The conference continues Friday. Dr. Harold Orr is chairman of the business sessions and the following are attending:

Dr. C. F. Blackler and Dr. G. D. W. Cameron, both of Ottawa, and Dr. A. W. Park, Calgary, are representatives of the federal department of pension and national health.

British Columbia: Dr. G. F. Amos, deputy minister of health; Dr. Donald H. Williams, director of the venereal disease division.

Alberta: Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health; Dr. M. R. Shaw, deputy minister of health; Dr. Harold Orr, director of social hygiene and medical officer of the venereal disease division; Dr. M. L. Davidson, District No. 13; Dr. R. M. Shaw, provincial health officer.

Saskatchewan: Dr. R. O. Davison, deputy minister of health; Dr. F. Middleton, director of the venereal disease division.

To Avert Shortage

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(CP)—Increases of 10 to 15 per cent, in the temporary, dollar price ceilings on flour were announced by the office of price administration yesterday to avert a threatened flour shortage in the United States.

The upward adjustment was brought about by an order providing that the maximum price shall be the highest level at which a seller contracted to sell during the Sept. 28-Oct. 2 base period rather than the top price at which deliveries actually were made.

He was captured the next day by British troops who seized his camera and flashed the picture to this continent from Cairo.

Tram Smoking To Be Banned During Winter

Smoking on Edmonton's street cars will be "out" for the winter months after 8 a.m. if a recommendation of the bylaws committee is accepted by the city council.

Committee members decided Thursday afternoon to recommend to council the adoption of a bylaw that would prohibit smoking on street cars from October 1, to May 31 after 8 a.m.

Smoking will be permitted only during the summer months when street car windows can be opened without discomfort.

Decision to permit smoking in the street cars prior to 8 a.m. was made to allow workers travelling in the cars early in the morning to have their pipes and cigarettes. It was pointed out that few women use the street cars before that hour.

The prior to 8 a.m. smoking will be confined to the rear compartment under the working man, the recommendation to council adds that commissioners be instructed to take the necessary steps to see the new ruling is effective.

Speaking to the prior to 8 a.m. smoking, Mayor John W. Ry said he "did not like to take the privilege from the working man. He gets up pretty early, has to rush off and it is usually during this time on the street car to work that he gets a chance to light up."

Ald. Mrs. J. A. Clarke said she had never ridden on a street car where smokers had made it unpleasant for her. Thomas Ferrier, street railway superintendent, reported that his department had received many complaints, now that street cars were being over-crowded under wartime conditions.

The city commissioners were instructed by the committee to take up with the Civic Union Federation officials the recommendation of Ald. H. D. Ainlay that union committees be established among the various utilities.

The Ainlay recommendation asked that city utilities and services set up union committees to "obtain representation from their members and to meet with superintendents in an advisory capacity."

Ainlay's recommendation also carried this rider: "that any city employee submitting suggestions which are adopted and used to the advantage of the city shall be suitably rewarded for such assistance."

Ald. S. Bowring moved that the recommendation be sent to the commissioners to consult with the members of the city union committee, the other members of the committee unanimously agreeing the unions should be consulted.

Royal Navy Poet Writes "Epitaph" for New Army

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Poet Michael Thwaites, 27, lieutenant in the Royal Navy, and winner of the King's medal for poetry in 1939, suggests an epitaph for a new army.

"No drums, if they wished, no thoughts were tied To girls and boys and mother. Who rose and drilled and killed and died."

But they saw no hero. Who died without the hero's throbs And if they tumbled, hid it. Who did not fancy much their job."

But thought it best, and did it." Thwaites, a gentle, middle-aged Australian now on leave in New York, won the King's medal with his long poem "Milton Road," written while he was at Oxford on a Rhodes scholarship.

OPEN UNDER FIRE He joined the navy immediately after Britain went to war and has been under fire often in the course of convoy duty in the Atlantic. He knows how men feel about war, and he says: "I try to translate those feelings into poetry."

The "epitaph" is one of a group of about war poems included in his book "The Jervin Bay and Other Poems" published in "What You Write" by John Payne.

Yank Trapped by 65 Japs, Lives on Borrowed Time

The following account of action in the Solomon Islands, distributed by The Associated Press and The Canadian Press, was written by a United States Marine corps correspondent in the combat zone.

By SGT. RICHARD T. WRIGHT A U.S. OUTPOST SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Sept. 12 (Delayed)—Private Eugene Oliver Moore, United States Marine corps, is living on borrowed time.

Sixty-five Japs trapped him in a tank on Gavutu Island, ripped open the hatch, threw hand grenades into it, and set it on fire. Smoke and fumes forced Moore out of the tank after the other crew members had been killed. The Japs grabbed him, knocked him down, kicked him, jabbed him with a pitchfork, knifed him, then picked him up and bounced him off the side of the tank. "I guess they thought I was dead," Moore recalls. "I had quite a bit of blood on me, and was unconscious."

Moore, whose home is San Francisco, at first was believed to have been killed in action. Rescued by his comrades and skillfully cared for by navy doctors, he is very much alive today, after being evacuated from the Solomons to this base with other marine wounded.

He told his remarkable story from his cot in the mobile base hospital which the navy has stationed here.

While Moore's tank was under fire, Private Kenneth Koon, of Summittville, Ind., was some distance away sniping at the attackers. Koon, also among the wounded.

PIONEERS ROUTE

R.C.M.P. Patrol Vessel Makes History in Trip Across Top of America

By BOB DALDRUPH
SYDNEY, N.S. Oct. 9.—(CP)—Completing history's first west-to-east water voyage across the top of America, eight men arrived here yesterday in a little Royal Canadian Mounted Police patrol ship 21½ years after the vessel had set sail from Vancouver.

Bobby Swims

The discoverers of the fabled northwest passage sailed quietly into this harbor aboard the 60-ton auxiliary schooner St. Roch, whose white-painted hull had bucked waves for most of the 28 months they spent thrusting their way through the ice-choked waters along the continent.

For most of the time since they left the west coast port in June of 1914, the crewmen had been isolated from civilization except for the radio. They had lost one man to the privations of the north, but had picked up the last of the dead shipmate at one of the R.C.M.P. posts in the lonely land of snow.

There was the second traversing of the northwest passage. Their only predecessors were the six men under Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, who first negotiated the twisting passage early this century, from west to east.

In the small Norwegian sailing ship "Gjøa" Amundsen and his men set out in 1903 and emerged into the Pacific ocean more than three years later.

VOYAGE SECRET

The story of the voyage that apparently wrote a new chapter in the geography books, was shrouded in official secrecy last night, as members of the crew declined to go into detail on their experiences.

All on the sturdy patrol vessel were members of the R.C.M.P. They were commanded by Sgt. Henry Larsen, a old Scandinavian-born Norseman.

The St. Roch itself, considering the battering it had undergone in the long months in the Arctic, was in remarkably good shape. Her solid, round hull bore few scars.

The seagoing Mounties explained the St. Roch had been built specifically for the purpose of the voyage on ships in the north. As she negotiated the tortuous, dangerous passage along the eastbound vessel had pioneered, she was lifted out of the water more than once.

ROUTE UNKNOWN

The route of the voyage, however, was not known. Point Barrow, at the extreme northwest tip of America, was the eastbound vessel had pioneered, she was lifted out of the water more than once.

When she sailed, she carried a supply of provisions that were replenished from time to time as she touched at R.C.M.P. posts in the north. Her crew found, too, that seals were shot and fish taken aboard for food.

Her crew did not disclose last night the identity of the man who died in the north, or the place and manner of his death.

Whether the voyage was classified

as a "secret" or "top secret" was especially designed as one of the last things to be known last night.

At all events, Arctic-wise veterans along the coast said the service could have picked no better combination for the job than Capt. Henry (Harry) Larsen and the St. Roch.

Larsen, a native of Denmark, has been called "the best Arctic skipper in the world." He and the St. Roch have been a team since the schooner's launching in 1921.

TRADED IN NORTH

The Scandinavian skipper had been in the northern trading business for years. He had been in the north since the schooner's launching in 1921.

His vessel, built in North Vancouver, was put together with an eye to meeting the conditions of the north. Her timbers are two-thirds heavier than those normally to be found in a ship of her construction.

Her outside hull construction is unique. She is sheathed in copper, and over that layer is another sheath of Australian "iron bark"—the only wood known to resist the grinding effects of ice.

For most of the time since they left the west coast port in June of 1914, the crewmen had been isolated from civilization except for the radio. They had lost one man to the privations of the north, but had picked up the last of the dead shipmate at one of the R.C.M.P. posts in the lonely land of snow.

MISSING AFTER FLYING

BOOTH, Arthur Robert, Flt. Lt. R. B. Booth, missing since Oct. 1, was reported to be a prisoner of war. Charles Ford, until recently with an anti-tank unit overseas, is now back in Canada and stationed in London, Ont. Don McKinnon, stationed with the R.C.A.F. at Macdonald, Man., was recently promoted from flight-sergeant to warrant officer, second class. Albert O'Hare returned recently from Edmonton where he passed examinations prior to taking training as a ground mechanic in the R.C.A.F.

Minute Make-Ups

Here's a "secret" recipe of a famous beauty's secret one egg well. To this add one-half cup of mineral or cotton seed oil, one tablespoon of Fuller's Earth, 1 ysa, can get this at the drug store. Blend well, then pour into a covered jar and place in ice box. Spread on the skin with upward strokes when you feel the need of a pick-up. Leave on for one minute. Remove. Then spray the skin with a skin freshener. Make-up Wonderful.

Some Sections Of Alberta Act Are Challenged

OTTAWA, Oct. 9.—(CP)—

Validity of certain sections of the Alberta Act, which provided that the Supreme Court of Canada today, on a reference directed by the Dominion government.

The sections particularly challenged were those which provided that any areas of taxes outstanding at the time of passage of the act should be a lien on any property owned on the date for which the taxes were due, and that anyone other than a county elevator operator, who received any part of the crop grown on such land should himself be liable for the taxes.

F. P. Varcoe, deputy minister of justice, appeared for the Dominion government to contend the sections were ultra vires of the Alberta legislature. W. S. Gray and R. J. Wilson of Edmonton appeared for the Alberta government to defend the Act.

Representing other provinces, interested in the issue from the point of view of jurisdiction of their own legislatures, were Attorney-General of Quebec,
R. L. B. Laflamme, attorney-general of Manitoba, and J. W. B.
Sawyer, attorney-general of Saskatchewan.

Attorney-General of Ontario,
James A. Aikins, also appeared for the Dominion government.

Once more in the role that made him one of Canada's outstanding pilots of the last war, Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., is shown in the cockpit of a fighting plane (Left) during a visit to an R.C.A.F. squadron in Britain. At Right, Air Marshal Bishop, who is director of recruiting for the R.C.A.F. in Canada, is shown with the personnel of a squadron during his inspection of aircraft and men.

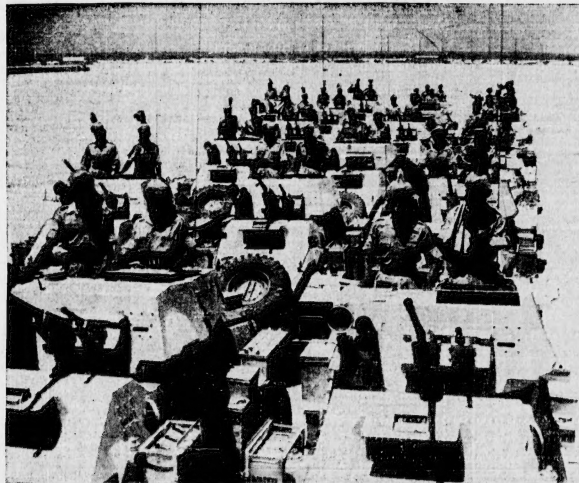

New Guinea natives, each shouldering about 40 pounds of supplies, carry much of the aid from Port Moresby into the hills where allied troops now fight Japs. They are shown heading across a field to the narrow highway leading toward the Owen Stanley mountains and the Jap base at Kokoda.

She first attended high school in Amherst, Ohio, then in Los Angeles. She is a member of the Navy Blue Beauty Sextet which appeared in so many pictures. She is also in "Yankee Doodle Dandy" supporting James Cagney.

Fighting in Egypt began again recently with report of an attack by British forces at the southern end of the Alamein line. British infantry and mechanized forces attacked Italian positions. Germany reported a British assault "undertaken by strong forces." Here is an armored Indian unit somewhere along the Egyptian battlefield preparing to start out on desert patrol. The desert dust is flying again with British attacks on German and Italian lines in Egypt. Here a British patrol takes cover from a shell burst near Mt. Himeimat in the western desert.

Although these sky troops have been in Britain for some time, their presence was only recently made known by Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, A.E.F. commander in chief in Europe. This is the first photo of them in action.

Chest Campaign Now is Entering Home Stretch

Only $15,000 separated the Community Chest campaign total Friday from the $300,000 objective set by campaign officials as the amount necessary to provide maintenance of 27 welfare organizations in the city with funds during 1943.

Figures compiled at the end of Thursday's campaigning were $26,163 collected from 3,118 contributors.

A tall call to all team captains in all three campaign divisions was issued Friday from Elmer K. Boyer, N.A.A. campaign chairman, and the three divisional chairmen: Mrs. S. H. Gandler, Fred J. Reynolds and Rowan McKinnon.

They urged all canvassers to complete their calls in order that team captains will be able to report final results at the Community Chest campaign headquarters, 102 street, by not later than 4 p.m. Saturday.

FIRST AGONY

For the second year in succession the professional section of the 1942 district commercial club election, the first group to exceed its quota, Louis Hyndman, K.C., is chairman of this division, as he was last year.

Though the Hyndman team was the first to go over the quota, the public employees division, working under the chairmanship of J. A. McLean, has exceeded its quota by the largest amount, having contributed 100 per cent of its quota.

Employee groups continue to hold the daily spotlight with several groups adding to the rapidly rising grand total Thursday.

Southern Alberta survey to determine the extent of the "black death" (syphilis) plague among zoonosis has been completed under the direction of J. H. Macdonald, department of entomology, University of Alberta, it was reported here Friday.

The survey in that portion of the province south of Red Deer was carried out during the period from April to September by two parties. The survey is financed jointly by Rockefeller Foundation and the provincial department of health and the federal department of penitentiaries and national health.

The plague can be communicated to humans by bites from gophers.

Mr. Guthrie spent several years working on the book, and according to engineers and leading men in the province, the "Handbook" is "convenient and useful, worthy of the interest of any engineer."

Another has described it as containing "useful data for quick and easy reference."

The book includes log tables, steam tables, conversion factors pertaining to mechanical and engineering problems, formulas for structural engineers, machinists, electrical engineers and engineering students.

Contents have been arranged concisely for educational, instructional and reference purposes, and the information has been procured from reliable sources.

It has been checked by leading engineers in Alberta, and approved by engineering professors at the university.

Landlords Must Conform to Rules

Two landlords who were fined in police court, Tuesday, for unlawfully raising the rent on two houses will have to lower the rent to the maximum set by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, according to C. J. Bryan, rental administration officer.

Mrs. Vera Madill, who had rented an unimproved house for $24 a month, was fined $20 for raising the rent to $28 a month. Madill had made application through the proper channels to have it increased, but the application was refused.

Wallace Thomas, who had raised the rent from $25 to $27.50 a month, will have to receive $25. He has already received the rent to the former figure, and has refunded the excess to his tenant.

Trucker is Fined In Supreme Court

Finding guilty in supreme court Friday in a charge of being in possession of obscene literature, James B. O'Connor said that "there is no evidence that the material was intended to corrupt any person, but unwisely had it in your possession."

A charge of gross indecency against the accused was stayed on the application of J. W. McLaughlin, K.C. crown prosecutor, there being insufficient evidence to sustain a conviction.

Two Are Injured Traffic Mishaps

A girl cyclist and a motorist were injured slightly in two traffic accidents Thursday night.

Isabelle Burke, 14, 1216 56A street, suffered abrasions to her knees when she was thrown off her bicycle after being struck by a truck driven by William J. Brooks, 12915 127 street.

Brooks struck the girl as she was coming to a stop alongside a stand-up street car at the intersection of 56 street and 116 avenue, at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Brooks told police that he had not intended to come to a stop and when he saw the cyclist in front was too late to avoid striking the girl.

Brooks, 40, of 94 street and 167 avenue, suffered a nose injury when he struck the steel standards on Jasper avenue between 96 and 97 street.

Brooks was attempting to police that he was attempting to pass a delivery truck when the accident occurred. The front end of his car was damaged considerably.
